

Patrick Curran Loftus

Patrick Curran Loftus, 30, of Newport, RI, unexpectedly passed away on Wednesday, October 29, 2014.

Born in Newport, RI on December 29, 1983, Patrick was the son of Garrett and Kathleen (Toracinta) Loftus of Newport. Known to his friends as PLoF, he was a lifelong resident of Newport and a proud 5th Warder.

Since childhood Pat had a talent and passion for art, which inspired his pursuit of a career in graphic design. He was a 2002 graduate of Rogers High School and earned a bachelors degree in graphic design at UMass Dartmouth in 2006.

Pat enjoyed his summers, growing up on Gooseberry Beach and spent many years working various jobs there throughout his teens. Also a member of Ancient Order of Hibernians, Pat enjoyed time with his brothers and learning about Irish history.

His parents, his twin brother Andrew and wife Emily and his sister Meg and husband Raleigh survive Patrick. He also leaves behind a huge and loving family of aunts, uncles and cousins as well as his nephews Leo, Ben and Jameson, whom he loved so much.

Pat was an “old soul” with a wonderful giving spirit. Our hearts are broken and we will miss him forever!

Visiting hours were held from 2-5 p.m. on Sunday, November 2, 2014 at the O’Neill-Hayes Funeral Home, 465 Spring Street, Newport.

A Mass of Christian burial was held on Monday, November 3, 2014 at St. Augustin’s Church, Carroll Avenue in Newport. Burial was private.

Please make donations to the Firefighters Rescue Fund, 21 West Marlborough Street, Newport RI 02840.
